

Enneagram for Living Courses over Zoom

Consent Form for Confidentiality

*Conditions of attending the course 'Enneagram for Living' delivered over Zoom
By registering for this course, you are agreeing to the following:*

- During discussions, participants may, at their own discretion, share personal information. Anyone attending the course will not share or discuss any personal information shared in sessions with anyone outside of sessions.
- Small group or pair discussions may take place during the course. In feedback from small group discussions, personal information shared in that group will not be given in feedback to the main group by participants other than the person who gave the information. The person who has shared personal information in the small group may share that information with the main group if they wish.
- Small group participants can give general feedback, such as 'we discussed X, Y, Z etc. to the main group, but not who said what, apart from themselves.
- During discussion sessions held over Zoom, no person who is not enrolled in the course should be in the room or within earshot of the course. People who are not enrolled in the course should not be privy to information shared by other participants. They are not part of the group and have not agreed to confidentiality.
- Likewise, during presentations of material, no one other than enrolled participants should be present. They have not paid for the course. Importantly also, other participants need to feel safe that anything they say during presentations will not be overheard by people who are not enrolled in the course and not bound by confidentiality.
- If you have friends and family who are interested in the course, by all means discuss it with them generally outside of sessions, and encourage them to get in touch with me about attending a future course.
- For the safety and privacy of yourself and other participants, enrolment in the course requires your agreement to these conditions. Thank you.
